ANNUAL EXHIBIT WILL OPEN AT HIGH SCHOOL

Exhibition of Work and Living Picture Festival This Week.

Art work of the schools of the city, both grade and high schools, decorates the halls of the high school this week preparatory to the annual art exhibit which will be opened at the high school Wednesday, May 10. Bingham, Battell, south side, Main and the high school have work which is presented at the show.

This display of work will close with the big living picture festival which will be staged in the high school auditorium on Friday night under the direction of Miss Catherine Lockhart, supervisor of art in the public schools. A play by high school students will be the feature of the entertainment, but pictures will be posed by both high school and grade school students, with the latter predominating.

In connection with these exhibits will be other exhibits by the domestic science, domestic art and manual training departments. The object of the exhibit is to bring the public into closer touch with the work being carried on in the schools especially by these special departments.

A decided change in the plan of the work for this year over last is that the practical side enters into it. Commercial advertising, costume designing, printing, poster work and home furnishing and decorating are some of the problems dealt with. Cut paper is used extensively in the first and second grades, being alternated by pattern work. In the grades above the third cut paper is assembled with originality, accurate freehand cutting and effective and harmonious colors as its aim. Miniature rooms made by classes trying to bring forth the principles of harmony in home decorating and furnishing are also on exhibition.

The following program has been prepared for the living picture festival, a play in which Dempster Beatty is the artist, Julia Niles, the child model; Grace Heldsmith, the society girl interested in charity; Mildred White, the maid, and Rollin Lenz, the butler.

The program of pictures will be as follows: "Nature" (Lawrence), by Lois Webster and Alice Byrkit; "Penelope Boothby" (Reynolds), by Francis Moore; "Strawberry Girl" (Reynolds), by Virginia Dresch; spring dance, by Dorothy Mix; "Olivia" (Emmett), by Lois Webster; "Boy With the Rabbit," by Richard Partridge; "Castles in Spain" (Brown), Lawrence Bash; "Beggar Boys" (Murrillo), by Paul Manson and Dean Brubaker; "Alice" (Chase), by Winifred Strubbe; "St."

FIGHTING FOR NOTHING SAYSUPT. D.W. HORTON

Educationalist Says War is Without Adequate or Legitimate Cause.

"The United States has no course open to it, but to resort to preparedness in the present crisis. The United States is not prepared; the United States must be prepared to back up its demands." So said D. W. Horton, superintendent-elect of the Mishawaka public schools, to a meeting of the Men's Brotherhood of the Methodist Memorial church, held Tuesday night.

"The war is not a war of ruling houses, a religious war, a war for commerce, a war for territory, a war for freedom, but a war without an adequate or legitimate cause. It is a war precipitated upon the world by two rulers very largely. It would, therefore, be a splendid thing for civilization if the war would end in the trenches; the trenches should come to see that they are fighting for nothing."

Continuing, Mr. Horton, whose subject was "What Is Going on in the World," said civilization had traveled westward since the world began, and democracy started in the west and had pressed eastward hard against the thrones of Europe. It was probable that it would continue its progress eastward after the war, and that two or three of the nations now at war would become more democratic after it was over. That the conflict was touched off by the rulers and princes of Europe, was demonstrated by the fact that none of the things that were thought to be able to prevent war could prevent this greatest of all wars, namely, science, letters, commerce, religion, and treaties for arbitration. The fact is also carried out that the rulers are aristocracy of several of the nations are divided from the people on their sympathies about the war.

The people of this country are coming to be in favor of preparedness. It is advocated very widely in the last year of the schools and would be followed by six months in actual camp for instruction in the use of arms and military maneuvers.

A discussion on the boy scouts movement followed in which Rev. Dr. Edwards and Messrs. Leslie and Middleton took part. The purpose and ideals of the organization and the fact that it was not a military one, was emphasized by the speaker. The brotherhood passed a resolution in favor of encouraging and supporting the boys in this work.

ADVOCATES MONTHLY CLEAN-UP FOR CITY

Health Officer Strubbe Will Urge Board and Council to Action.

Mishawaka may receive monthly as well as yearly cleanings if plans being formulated by Health Officer H. E. Strubbe are taken up by the board of public works and the council.

Mr. Strubbe advocates that on the first of every month citizens be ordered by the council to set out any cans or bottles or other articles of rubbish, not ashes, in the alley in proper receptacles, and that city wagons go around and collect them. This would only take a few days work every month and would save considerable money on the question of teams and workmen. The city now hauls ashes on permits and while these ashes are being hauled the men could just as well gather up the cans and bottles, thus keeping the yards clean at all times.

The board of works would have to give Street Commissioner Doolittle orders to make such collections, while the council would have to pass an ordinance ordering residence to provide suitable receptacles for the rubbish and to set it out the first of every month. Mr. Strubbe will bring the matter up before the board at the meeting next Monday.

It is not expected that the work of hauling away cans and rubbish from the annual clean-up labors will be finished before Friday, as the hauls are too long for the teams to make. It is estimated that more than 10 loads of refuse were hauled by the teams Tuesday.

BELGIAN HIT AND KILLED BY TRAIN

Fails to See Train as It Swoops Down Upon Him.

P. Bracquez, 50 years old, a Belgian laborer, was struck and instantly killed by an eastbound Lake Shore passenger train at the Wells st. crossing Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock.

In company with two companions, who refused to give their names, Bracquez was going north across the tracks and evidently did not hear the approaching train or the calls of his comrades, as he stepped directly on the track in the path of the speeding locomotive. The watchman at the corner tried to warn the man, who failed to see his motions.

His body was hurled more than 50 feet down the tracks, the head striking the rails of another track two or three times and mashing it into a pulp. His companions turned their heads as they saw the engine strike their comrade.

Belgian residents knew the man only as "P," but a pay envelope of the Mishawaka Woolen Co. was found in his pocket which gave the name P. Bracquez, and the check, or clock number, 1077.

Bracquez boarded at 1113 S. Main st., and had been in Mishawaka about seven months. He is unmarried as far as is known and has no relatives in this country. He came to the United States about 25 years ago.

Coroner T. J. Swantz was called from South Bend and examined the body, which was taken to the Finch and Sprague morgue.

A watch of foreign make and several small articles were found in the man's pockets. His hat was found in the center of the track a few feet from the body. His lunch pail, badly battered but with a coffee bottle unbroken, was found about 30 feet from the body. The man's shoes were lying some distance away from the body, evidently torn from his feet by the blow. The watch was still running when the body was examined by Patrolmen Turbush and Potts.

MISHAWAKA BOY IS VICTIM OF TYPHOID

Edward J. Schnellbach died at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Schnellbach, 714 E. Fourth st., Wednesday morning at 9:15 o'clock. Death was due to typhoid pneumonia, with which the boy was stricken on Easter Sunday.

He was born in Mishawaka April 17, 1905, and was about 11 years old. He is survived by his parents, one sister, Miss Marie E. Schnellbach, and one brother, Francis C. Schnellbach, residing at home.

The funeral will be held from St. Joseph's Catholic church on Saturday morning in all probability. Burial will be in St. Joseph's cemetery.

The words of praise and commendation of such prominent men as the Rev. Mr. Miles, men who stand for righteousness, honesty, and integrity, in their community, should prove the merits of Tanlac.
